NEW! from Stenhouse Publishers

Teaching for Racial Equity

Becoming interrupters

Tonya Perry & Steven Zemelman, with Katy Smith

272 pp (est) • ISBN 978-1-62531-518-2 • $46.95 • 5–12
coming in Spring 2022

Filled with inspiring and sometimes difficult conversations, this thoughtful book captures the real work teachers and administrators are doing in schools today. By bringing essential perspectives and valuable strategies to the classroom, teachers lead students in learning how to listen and learn about one another's identities and thoughtfully critique the racial inequities all around us. All of us in education can find opportunities to interrupt the status quo that allows inequities to go unchallenged. We cannot sit back and allow ourselves to perpetuate inequity. We must all become interrupters.

Mathematizing Children's Literature

Sparkling connections, joy, and wonder through read-alouds and discussion

Allison Hintz & Antony T. Smith

240 pp • ISBN 978-1-62531-158-0 • $39.95 • PreK–3
coming in January 2022

Many teachers use traditional counting and shape books in math class. But what would happen if we approached any story with a math lens? How might mathematizing children's literature give learners space to ask their own questions and make connections between stories, their lives, and the world around them? These are the questions Allison Hintz and Antony T. Smith set out to explore in this book as they invite us to consider fresh ways of using interactive read-alouds to nurture students as both readers and as mathematicians.

Above and Beyond the Writing Workshop

Shelley Harwayne

368 pp • ISBN 978-1-62531-430-7 • $64.95 • 1–6 • 2021

Filled with original, joyful writing challenges designed to bring back the spirit of the writing workshop model while encouraging educators to enhance it through invention, innovation, and inspiration. These challenges are meant to generate other lessons and projects, as teachers come to realize that teaching writing is not only possible but perhaps the most important, relevant, and gratifying part of their instruction. This thoughtful book promotes the belief that children who write what matters to them—their experience, their beliefs, their observations—will find their lives enhanced. It seeks to raise activists who, by becoming more aware of the world and asking why things are the way they are, will be empowered to make it better.

The Gift of Story

Exploring the affective side of the reading life

John Schu

184 pp (est) • ISBN 978-1-62531-208-2 • $38.95 • K–8
coming in Spring 2022

In this book of the heart, teacher, librarian, book lover, and story ambassador, John Schu, known to reading communities all over as Mr. Schu, invites readers to consider literacy beyond its academic benefits, highlighting the ways story speaks to our hearts and brings us together. Presented through a study of five affective elements—healer, inspiration, clarifier, compassion, and connector—The Gift of Story explores how the universal truths found in stories can change us, inspire us, connect us to others, answer our deepest questions, and help us heal. Along the way, readers will encounter insightful contributions from educators, children's writers and illustrators, as well as recommendations for sharing the gift of story with learning communities.

Writing Clubs

Fostering community, collaboration, and choice in the writing classroom

Lisa Eickholdt & Patricia Vitale-Reilly

208 pp • ISBN 978-1-62531-323-2 • $39.95 • 3–6
coming in January 2022

Ask teachers about their biggest challenges in elementary and middle school, and many will cite the teaching of writing. It is often difficult for students find the joy, discovery, and satisfaction writing can yield. Believing that writing instruction should be more authentic, this hands-on guide offers students more choice, develops better collaboration, and sustains a sense of community, all through the implementation of writing clubs.

Patterns of Wonder

Inviting emergent writers to play with the conventions of language, PreK–1

Whitney La Rocca & Jeff Anderson

416 pp • ISBN 978-1-62531-450-5 • $69.95 • PreK–1 • 2021

Sharing new ways we can invite our youngest writers to experiment, have fun, and take risks with writing and language. Outlining an adjusted invitational process, adopted especially for use with emergent writers, the book positions grammar and concepts about print instruction across three overlapping levels of support: oral language, illustrating, and writing. Practical and hands-on, this valuable resource includes over fifty sample lessons that pinpoint and build cumulatively across the most common needs of emergent writers.
